

Quayles put up with leaky roof

By KAREN FELD

The Quayles entertained a few friends — including CIA Director Bill Webster, FBI Director Bill Sessions and Defense Secretary Dick Cheney at their official residence on the grounds of the U.S. Naval Observatory the other evening. The century-old Victorian manse, one guest remarked, looked like it belonged in a Third World country with its ceiling cracked and leaking.

□ □ □

According to House Speaker Thomas Foley, Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev will address a joint session of Congress in June. During a discussion about the future role of Cuba and the Soviet Union the other evening in which many politicians were saying that Gorbachev will dump Cuba for economic reasons, one well-connected physician said that Fidel Castro won't be around long enough to be overthrown. Apparently he's suffering from a terminal illness, the insider now in its eighth year, is NBC's answer to CBS's Kennedy Center Honors. "A thousand points of light — now you know what we mean. We don't often see this many stars," the president said.

Dan Quayle

said.

□ □ □

President Bush and Barbara Bush, sitting with NBC president Bob Wright, sang along with Olivia Newton-John, Vic Damone and Diahann Carroll at the taping of "Christmas in Washington" at the National Building Museum. The special, Capitol Reflections, from Creators Syndicate, appears Sundays.
